

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a composite of materials having at least one large loop of continuous reinforcement within a vinyl ester resin. The composite further has spanner structures formed by using either chopped or woven mat fibers to span areas not incorporating the loops of large continuous fiber reinforcement.

